Commissioner John P. Sheridan, Jr.

John P. Sheridan, Jr., was appointed Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Transportation by Governor Tom Kean and served from April 1982 through May 1985. He was Commissioner when the New Jersey Transportation Trust Fund Authority Act of 1984 was passed by the Legislature creating the first stable source of financing for state transportation projects. He also served as Chairman of the New Jersey Authorities Commission. He was instrumental in brokering an agreement among the state's then-three independent toll road authorities to contribute annual surplus revenues toward state transportation needs. Prior to his appointment, Commissioner Sheridan served as a State Deputy Attorney General, Assistant Counsel to Governor William Cahill, and Counsel to the New Jersey State Senate Minority.

He was born in Cambridge, Massachusetts and graduated from St. Peter's College and Rutgers Law School. Commissioner Sheridan also served in the United States Army from 1968 through 1970. At the time of his passing, he was the President and CEO of the Cooper Health System in Marlton. He also was a member of the Cooper Health System Board of Trustees. Before joining Cooper, Commissioner Sheridan was a senior partner and co-chairman of the law firm of Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland & Perretti. He served for a number of years as general counsel to the New Jersey Turnpike Authority and the Carrier Clinic, and was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Carrier Clinic for 25 years.

Commissioner Jamie Fox

James P. (Jamie) Fox is the only person appointed to the position of Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Transportation by two different governors. He served under Governor Chris Christie from September 2014 to October 2015, and under Governor James McGreevey from February 2002 to December 2002. "Jamie," as he was known since childhood, had a long and distinguished career in government. He served in other senior positions under five governors. In his capacity as Transportation Commissioner, he served as Chairman of the Board of NJ Transit. Other titles included: Deputy Executive Director of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, Chief of Staff to Governor McGreevey, and Deputy Chief of Staff to Governor James Florio. During his first tenure at NJDOT, he oversaw several historic and bipartisan reforms and was responsible for fixing the long troubled E-ZPass system, consolidating the New Jersey Turnpike Authority and Garden State Parkway Authority, and overseeing a significant legislative overhaul of the former New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles, now called the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission. During his second term at NJDOT, Commissioner Fox lent his considerable influence toward the most recent reauthorization of the Transportation Trust Fund.

Commissioner Fox graduated with a B.A. in Political Science from Villanova University. He also participated in the State and Local Government program at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University. Commissioner Fox was a lobbyist in the private sector for many years, most recently with the River Crossing Strategy Group in Trenton and New York. He was born in Elizabeth, and was a 35-year resident of Lambertville.
